Many companies like to tout their corporate culture, but only some get to be called a "Best Place to Work."

This week, we're announcing the 60 companies being honored this year by the Albany Business Review as the region's 2025 Best Places to Work.

Yesterday, we announced the winners in the small- and medium-sized company categories.

Today, we're honoring the the two largest categories of this year's winners.

This is the 22nd year of the ABR's Best Places to Work awards, and more than 100 companies submitted nominations to be included in this year's program. Winners were selected based on data collected by our partner, Quantum Workplace of Omaha, Nebraska.

Quantum surveys the employees of nominated companies. A significant number of employees need to complete the surveys – and rate their workplace highly – for companies to qualify for the award.

All 60 of our winners will be profiled in our Dec. 12 edition and honored on Thursday, Dec. 11, at our annual Best Places to Work event, held this year at the Albany Marriott on Wolf Road. (Register here to reserve a table or tickets.)
